INVITATION

Dear colleagues,
Dear ALS/MND-Net partners,

We are pleased to continue the German ALS/MND Science Day and cordially invite you to this year's symposium in Frankfurt. The meeting will provide a platform for young clinicians/scientists presenting their data on basic science and translational approaches. A special moment will be the keynote speech given by Prof. Dr. A. Chiò, which will take place on Thursday evening after the symposium dinner. On Friday, the scientific program will end with a session aiming at providing an outlook into disease understanding and therapeutic approaches of the future.

We are looking forward to welcome you in Frankfurt and wish you a pleasant meeting.

With best regards

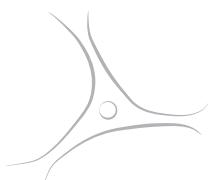

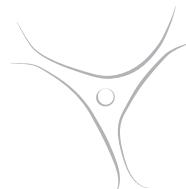

Yours

Dr. J. Schuster

Prof. Dr. J. Dorst

PROGRAM

Thursday, October 17th

15:00 – 16:00 Check-in and meeting registration, get together with coffee and cookies

16:00 – 18:00 Session 1 – basic science and translational research

A. Jürs, Rostock

The impact of nucleocytoplasmic transport dysfunction on aging and neurodegeneration

L. Tzeplaeff, TUM

Identification of proteomic clusters in CSF of sporadic ALS patients

C. Steffke, Ulm

Targeted proteome analysis of CSF and serum identifies novel potential therapy-responsive biomarkers in SOD1-ALS upon treatment with Tofersen

S. Michels, Ulm

Alternative polyadenylation in the etiology and pathogenesis of ALS

J. Hesebeck-Brinkmann, Mannheim

Proteomic analysis of a TANK-binding kinase 1 (TBK1) mutant mouse model of ALS

L. Steinfurth, Berlin

Self-Assessment of amyotrophic lateral sclerosis functional rating scale on the patient's smartphone proves to be non-inferior to clinic data capture

A. Rosenbohm, Ulm

ALS Phenotyping – a comparison between an epidemiologic approach and medical records

C. Radke, Aachen

The German MND-Net Tissue Bank – an update

S. Heyne, Leipzig

How can we improve the quality of life for patients and caregivers affected by ALS? –
Initial findings from the participatory multi-method study potentiALS.

18:00 – 20:00 Meet and Greet (dinner buffet @ atrium)

20:30 Keynote Lecture, Prof. Dr. A. Chiò, Torino

Disentangling ALS Heterogeneity: Where are we now?

Friday, October 18th

9:00 – 11:00 Session 2: translational research

A. Cakar, Istanbul

Nusinersen Treatment Spinal Muscular Atrophy Type 3: A Single Center Experience in Türkiye

B. Bjelica, Hannover

CMAP amplitude as a therapeutic biomarker in adult patients with spinal muscular atrophy: A multicenter observational study

C. Herrmann, Ulm

Ketogenesis in ALS and SMA – implications for new therapeutic targets?

A. Lehto, Rostock

Do primary lateral sclerosis patients show glucose hypometabolism in the primary motor cortex?

L. Marsen, Jena

Is physical activity a risk factor for ALS?

C. Vogt, St. Gallen

Quinine Sulfate for cramps in ALS: a randomized, double-blind, crossover study

M. Wiesenfarth, Ulm

Effects of tofersen treatment in SOD1-ALS –
two years of experience in a “real-world” cohort

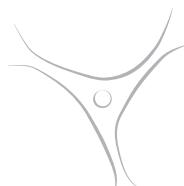

A. Maier, Berlin

Assessment of manual function in ALS with the ALS pen – prototyping of the device and conduction of a feasibility study/ Head-to-head comparison between the harmonized and the self-explanatory version of the ALS functional rating scale: results of a prospective study

S. Spittel, Berlin

Dextromethorphan/quinidine (DMQ) in the treatment of bulbar symptoms in ALS – patient-reported outcomes in a multicenter study

11:00 – 11:30 Get together with coffee and cookies

PROGRAM

Friday, October 18th

11:30 – 12:45 Session 3: Understanding ALS, and treatment options on the horizon

T. Meyer, Berlin

ALS motor phenotypes – updated model and consensus finding

P. Couratier, Limoges

Presentation of the French-German cohort study to determine factors associated with weight loss in ALS (FG-CoALS)

J. Weishaupt, Mannheim

Somatic mutations and therapeutic consequences in ALS

P. Lingor, München

The fasudil story in ALS – lessons learned for future clinical trials

D. Brenner, Ulm

Accelerating ALS drug development by early exploratory trials

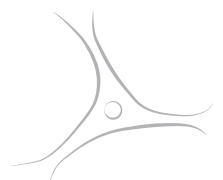

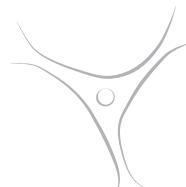

12:45 Young talent presentation award, closing of the scientific program

13:00 – 14:30 Industry exhibition and lunch – get together
